What Are The Rules Governing Conditional Uses?

To approve a variance, the decision maker is required to conclude the criteria listed below are met. When you submit your application, you should include a written explanation on how you think each criterion is met. This is your chance to make your case. By addressing these thoroughly, you can reduce the possibility of an important factor being overlooked. A variance application may be approved or approved subject to conditions provided that the variance requested is consistent with the following criteria as prescribed under the City of Winnipeg Charter Act:

- Is there a negative impact on neighbours / neighbourhood;
- Is the application consistent with Plan Winnipeg and Secondary Plans;
- Is the variance a minimum modification to the Zoning By-Law to relieve injurious affect;
- Is the application compatible with the area?

The decision maker may place conditions upon a variance approval, which are deemed necessary to ensure these criteria are met.
