

Variance (DAV “C” or “D”) Other Residential & Commercial Uses/Buildings Application Form

Use this application if your project does not meet all zoning rules. You can ask for a variance to allow changes like building closer to a property line, adding height, or changing parking. A variance gives permission to do something that zoning usually does not allow.

What is a variance?

A variance is a request to modify the dimensional standards or requirements of the Zoning By-law that apply to a specific property. This may include yards/ building setbacks, height requirements, and/or lot coverage. When these requirements cannot be met due to unique circumstances related to a property, a variance is an option to ensure that a property owner is not deprived of normal rights to use their property. A variance allows an exemption to one or more of the zoning requirements under certain circumstances, but does not change the zoning designation of the property.

How long does the variance process take?

The length of time to process depends on the complexity of the application proposal and the completeness of the required documentation and information (refer to the checklist under “Application Submission Requirements”). In general, the process takes approximately six to eight weeks from the date of the application submission to complete. Complicated applications may take longer. For more information, visit development application process.

What happens during the variance process?

Once the application is submitted to a Zoning Development Officer and the applicable fees have been paid, the file is circulated to the Area Planner. The Planner will review the application and prepare a report outlining their recommendation to support the variance with conditions, request for changes in order to approve the variance, or reject the variance altogether.

The criteria to approve a variance application are based on subsection 247(3) of The City of Winnipeg Charter which includes the following:

- (a) Is consistent with Plan Winnipeg and any applicable secondary plan
- (b) Does not create a substantial adverse effect on the amenities, use, safety and convenience of the adjoining property and adjacent area, including an area separated from the property by a street or waterway
- (c) Is the minimum modification of a zoning by-law required to relieve the injurious effect of the zoning by-law on the applicant’s property
- (d) Is compatible with the area in which the property to be affected is situated

In the letter of intent, please explain how each criterion is met. This is an opportunity to address all issues and reduce the possibility of an important factor being overlooked.

Once the Area Planner approves the variance for posting, the variance clerk will create the public notices and contact the applicant to pick up the notices from the Zoning and Permits office. The applicant must post the notices on the subject property for a period of 14 days in a visible location facing the street(s) and/or lane(s). The applicant is responsible for maintaining the notices during the required 14-day posting period (as per Subsection 118 of The City of Winnipeg Charter). Should the notices be removed or damaged during the posting period, the applicant must contact the Zoning and Permits office for replacement notices.

The public notices inform the neighbourhood of the purpose of the variance and the date, time and location of the public hearing. On the day of the hearing, the decision maker (i.e. Committee [CC]) will decide whether to support the variance with conditions, request for changes in order to approve the variance, or reject the variance altogether.

After the hearing the City Clerk's Department generates a variance order which outlines the decision made by the CC, any conditions that the variance must abide by, and instructions on how to appeal the decision. If no appeals are received by the deadline specified on the order, the decision made on the variance order is deemed to be in effect.

What happens if the Community Committee supports the variance, but the application is appealed by neighbours?

- Any neighbouring property owner(s) who oppose the variance granted by the order may appeal the decision by submitting a written notice to the City Clerk's Department prior to the end of the 14-day appeal period as specified on the variance order
- The applicant shall be notified by registered mail of any appeals
- If there are appeals, the property is posted for a second 14-day period informing the neighbourhood of the appeal hearing date. The matter is heard before the Appeal Committee at City Hall, 510 Main Street.
- The Appeal Committee may dismiss the appeal (allow the original variance order to be confirmed), grant the appeal (dismiss the original order), or allow the appeal in part placing conditions on an Appeal Order
- If the original order is dismissed (the variance is rejected), the applicant cannot re-apply for the same variance within one year from the date of the Appeal Order and a building or development permit cannot be issued for the proposed work

What happens if the Community Committee rejects the variance, but the application is appealed by the applicant?

- The applicant may appeal the rejected order by submitting a written notice to the City Clerk's Department prior to the end of the 14-day appeal period as specified on the variance order
- The subject property is posted for a second 14-day period informing the neighbourhood of the appeal hearing date. The matter is heard before the Appeal Committee at City Hall, 510 Main Street.
- The Appeal Committee may dismiss the appeal (allow the rejected order to be confirmed) or grant the appeal (dismiss the rejected order)
- If the appeal is dismissed (the variance is rejected), the applicant cannot re-apply for the same variance or variance within one year from the date of the Appeal Order and a building or development permit cannot be issued for the proposed work
